

Roger Strevens

VP Global Sustainability, Wallenius Wilhelmsen

Environmental industrialist, sustainability native. As VP, Global Sustainability at Wallenius Wilhelmsen, Roger engages with its diverse array of external sustainability stakeholders as well as its corporate functions. The over-arching objective is the same for all; to advance the sustainability agenda, while creating mutual value.

His responsibilities range from representing the Group's interests in maritime environmental policy, to driving sustainability collaborations with industry partners, customers and innovators. He works to build a 'Lean:Green' sustainability culture in the Group, and contributes to ensuring financial stakeholders' evolving sustainability needs are met, including in relation to ESG reporting.

Roger is the Chair of the Irish Norwegian Chamber of Commerce, a board member of the Ocean Exchange, a forum for acceleration sustainable innovation, a steering committee member of the Ship Recycling Transparency initiative and a member of the SASB Standards Advisory Group for marine transportation.

Before starting his current role in 2017, Roger was VP of one of the commercial divisions of Wallenius Wilhelmsen Logistics, having been VP, Environment for three years before that. He holds a mechanical and manufacturing engineering degree from the University of Dublin, Trinity College.
